The CEO/Founder TAC Africa Dr. Jerry I. Akubo in accord with it's passionate drive to actualize the objectives of School of Hardknocks, made a tour visit with his Team to the IBB Golf field, which is currently sitting on a 82 hectares land mass.

The team is made up of his Legal and Communication Department head –Dr. Ifeanyi Anya (Special Assistant To The CEO of TAC Africa Communications & Strategy), and Bar. Charles Okenwa (Legal Adviser TAC Africa).

A prestigious and tourist attraction and typically opens by 9am and closes by 8pm

It was indeed an amazing experience upon our arrival to the Golf Course. As the scerenic background was absolutely remarkable and Paradasaic. We had a warm reception upon our arrival by 10am on Sunday at the IBB Golf Course by The Head of Operations Mr. Chris Omenha, who then briefly gave us a quick overview of the IBB Golf Course and reiterated the significance of the importance of being a member.

The Golf Association has High Profile Individuals including Governors, Army Generals, Directors, International Diplomats etc. and mostly plays the Golf Games with other persons from different walks of life. SOHK believes that the kids of vulnerable backgrounds will undoubtedly harness the opportunity of it's professional mind development sports integrated learning process.

It is important to note that this excursion to The IBB Golf Course is to further advance the realisation of objectives of the School of Hardknocks, which idea is to create a program that encourages children to adopt higher values through a series of steps or levels of various sports activities.

It has dismayed Dr. Jerry the Principal Advocate of SOHK in Nigeria, that often educators see the levels of Teaching as ends in themselves—something like achievement goals rather than as a dynamic, living and breathing "way of life".

'Effective Educators' have found that once the TPSR system has been successfully taught and demonstrated, that classes run more smoothly and that there is less need for classroom management work on their part—the students/children internalized their own management! The overall movement of values is from egocentricity and immaturity to a community orientation and maturity.

This fact was further X-rayed by Mr. Maxwell the IBB Golf Tour Guide, as he emphasized that the game of golf requires discipline, focus, concentration, balance, precision and flexibility of muscles as fundamental and important values Golf players must imbibe.

The hope is that eventually these values and goals become integrated seamlessly into the student's or child world view learning process.

SOHK believes that educators should always be asking themselves if their outlook and teaching method is worth doing—and more importantly, is what we are Teaching working to educate and have impact on the child informally?

Hence SOHK is pivotal in setting a Pace to every child development through it's mind building capacity objectives all over the world.

The Tour Visit gave us much insight to the Golf Play rules and components of the various segments of the games. These includes The T-Box, The Potting Green Yard, The Whole, The Bunker, The Golf Par, The Stroke Index, The Fair Play.

This truly proves that the Golf Game is indeed an exploration for SOHK to the learning process for Children. The SOHK project is no doubt a significant and impactful project on the continental child development process which the UNICEF is certainly expected to key into.

"A good player who is a great putter is a match for any golfer. A great hitter who cannot putt is a match for no one."
